The Women's Budget Group

Report from the Board of Directors

Overview of activities

The UK Women's Budget Group (WBG) is a network of leading academic researchers, policy analysts and activists set up in 1989 to analyse UK government economic policy for its impact on women and to promote policies that will increase gender equality. We produce well respected, academically robust analysis of the gender impact of economic policy in order to influence policy discussions and promote gender equal policy outcomes. We also work to build the capacity of women and women's organisations to take part in debates about the economy and influence economic policy.

2021/22 was a busy year for the Women's Budget Group. Alongside our ongoing work on the Budget we ran four main projects – the Feminist Green New Deal, Local Data Project, Global Partnerships and Learning Project and a caring economy. We continued to analyse the gendered impact of Covid, and started work on the cost of living crisis. We also continued our partnership with our sister organisations the Scottish Women's Budget Group, Northern Ireland Women's Budget Group and Wales Women's Budget Group. We published 10 reports and 10 pre-budget briefings alongside our responses to the autumn Spending Review and Spring Budget. We held 14 webinars and on-line events, responded to 14 consultations, were cited in over 20 parliamentary debates (often by several different MPs), gave evidence in person to two select committees and two APPGs and have met with parliamentarians from all parties on a weekly basis including Ministers, shadow ministers and spokespeople from the Liberal Democrats and SNP.

Covid-19 continued to have a major impact on our own work and WBG operations during 2021. The office remained closed for most of the year, briefly re-opened in the autumn and then closed again with the Omicron wave. Several WBG staff contracted Covid-19 during the winter of 2021/22, which disrupted our work at the beginning of this year. Our team has also grown over this past year, and at the end of March 2022, we had 10 members of staff, including one staff member on maternity leave.

Four members of the Board came to the end of their terms of office and stood down in September 2021. We decided not to replace these members as the Board had grown quite large.

Analysis of Budget, Spending Review and Financial Statements

Analysis of Budgets and financial statements remains an on-going focus for our work. We held events to watch and discuss the Spending Review and Budget in the autumn of 2021 and the Budget in the spring. For the 2021 Spending Review, WBG published a Comprehensive Spending Review 2021: A Joint Representation from the UK Women's Budget Group. For the 2021 Autumn Budget we published analyses on A lack of ambition: our response to the Autumn 2021 Budget as well as a Spending Review and a Gender Analysis of the Cumulative Distributional Impact of 2022 Tax and Benefit Changes and Inflation.

We released an updated set of briefings in advance of both budgets. We also produced parliamentary briefings on childcare and gender (for a Westminster Hall debate), an analysis of the Government's social care proposals, equality impact assessments in local government and a briefing on the cost-of-living crisis. On the day of the Spring Statement 2022, WBG held an online watch-along event, followed by a discussion afterwards and a press release on the day. A more detailed initial response was published the day after with a full response with contributions from members of the WBG Policy Advisory Group. WBG were among other groups who recognised the unexpected and unprecedented turn of events in the last six months, resulting in an Immediate call for an Emergency Budget to be released by the Government.

The Women's Budget Group

Report from the Board of Directors

A caring economy

With the rise in cost of living and the gendered impacts of the effects of the pandemic, we are seeing a growing recognition that spending on care should be seen as investment in social infrastructure and of the significance of care as part of a green new deal. WBG conducted analyses on Access to Childcare in Great Britain as well as analyses on a Mega survey of UK parents shows that childcare is failing families. We are working with other organisations across the sector to develop plans for a childcare coalition to build on these new opportunities.

We worked with the New Economics Foundation (NEF) to hold round table meetings bringing together a wide array of stakeholders including disability organisations, older people and carer's organisations, trade unions and policy analysts on various issues pertinent in the social care sector. We published a joint paper with NEF drawing on these round tables and other research: Universal quality social care: transforming adult social care in England. We held two webinars – one with international experts and one to discuss the findings of the event.

Covid-19

Throughout the year, we have continued our analysis on the gendered impact of Covid-19. We published a set of updated briefings in advance of the Autumn 2021 Budget. We published 8 further briefings and reports on the impact of Covid-19 on different groups of women and women's attitudes to Government response to Covid-19. Our work on the impact of Covid-19 on different groups of women has had significant impact. There is widespread recognition that the pandemic has had a gendered impact and that Black and minority ethnic women, working class women, disabled women, and single parents, have been particularly badly hit. Over the year we worked with the Co-Power project researching the impact of Covid-19 on BAME communities, and since the end of the year have organised a parliamentary event to promote their findings.

Cost of living

Towards the end of the year it became increasingly clear that the combination of low incomes, debt as a result of covid and an increase in the cost of living were have a disproportionate impact on the poorest families, and that these impacts were gendered. WBG published related reports on The gendered impact of the cost-of-living crisis, The gendered impact on incomes of two measures to tackle cost-of-living crisis and The impact of the coronavirus pandemic on young women on low incomes and we are continuing work on the cost of living scandal in 2022/23.

Feminist Green New Deal

During the year we continued with our Feminist Green New Deal Project (FGND) in collaboration with the Women's Environmental Network (WEN). The project aims to promote an intersectional Feminist Green New Deal in the UK; engaging environmental, women's, racial and social justice organisations. Over the year we held a series of roundtables and published policy papers (led by WBG), alongside grassroots workshops (led by WEN), webinars and organised an event at COP26 in November 2021. We released three reports Towards Gender Inclusive and Sustainable Transport Systems, Rethinking Housing Supply and Design and Revitalising Local Communities. We held an event entitled A shorter working week as part of green caring economy, Tuesday 8th February 2022. We published 3 blog posts: Caring for the planet and for people – why a Feminist Green New Deal is urgent, As working patterns change is it time to rethink public transport priorities?, The climate emergency is here: We must make our housing policy greener too.

The Women's Budget Group

Report from the Board of Directors

Cop26: We produced an action statement at Cop26 to galvanise support from campaigners, grassroots organisations, academics, policymakers and civil society. Through a programme of nationwide grassroots workshops and policy roundtables a Feminist Green New Deal Manifesto was created and launched at COP26 Glasgow Climate Talks. We also held a successful in person event entitled Why do we need a feminist approach to tackling the climate crisis? to explore the importance of implementing an intersectional, feminist approach to tackling the climate crisis. We held a COP26 stall with WEN in the main arena where we had the opportunity to meet with other attendees, stakeholder and speakers as well as learn and connect with new organisers.

Local Data Project

The Local Data Project (LDP) is a WBG project to build and strengthen the capacity of local organisations who campaign for women's equality to access and use equality data in their advocacy and campaign work. In April 2021, we released our first national briefing on the gender differences in access to coronavirus support, alongside our Local Data Toolkit. In July 2021, we released our second national briefing which looked at access to childcare, focusing on availability, affordability, and the impact of the pandemic. In November 2021, we released our third national briefing on the gender pay gap in the UK. We held our first training session with a group of local women's organisations from all four nations of the UK. We held 10 introductory workshops on accessing local data, with a total of 51 participants, two thematic workshops on childcare and the gender pay gap, with a total of 18 participants and joint sessions on Storytelling with Data – in collaboration with Economy, with 13 participants. We delivered bespoke sessions with 3 UK women's organisations and collaborated with 2 more. We presented our work at 3 different events and launched a new LDP-specific microsite in early 2022.

Global Partnerships and Learning Programme

This programme (GPL) seeks to develop collaborative partnerships with civil society organisations around the world to support them in engaging effectively in dialogue with their governments to develop policies and allocate resources in ways that improve the lives of women, with an emphasis on the most marginalised women, based on their needs and objectives. We have held 11 training and strategy sessions, a global webinar, presented at a number of events and conferences, and providing ongoing support to our longer-standing partners, particularly those based in Greece and Kenya. In collaboration with our global pool of trainers, we have provided technical training on gender-responsive budgeting, as well as sessions on capacity building, setting up a network, fundraising, communications, and social media strategy.

In 2021, we held two events at the annual conference of the International Association for Feminist Economics (IAFFE). In 2021, we participated in both the W7 and L7 and at the 2022 IAFFE conference. We held an event on 'A Feminist Green New Deal - Macroeconomic considerations in building a Green Caring Economy' and an event on Gender-responsive budgeting: what it is and how to do it. In collaboration with the Gender & Development Network, in March 2022 we published a briefing on how to put care at the centre of global Covid-19 recovery efforts. At the 2022 Global Green New Deal conference, we organised a session titled 'Feminist Issues on a GGND: Ecofeminist approach'.

The Women's Budget Group

Report from the Board of Directors

4 Nations Project

The 4 Nations Project is committed to sharing learnings for gender responsive budgeting and ensure a 4 nations approach to research and evidence. We have continued to meet with our partners (Scottish Women's Budget Group, Northern Ireland Women's Budget Group and the Welsh Women's Budget Group incubated by Chwarae Teg) on a monthly basis to share information and ideas and promote collaboration. In May 2021 the Four Nations project held its first annual conference, entitled Bringing a Caring Economy to the 4 Nations: Making gender budgeting work in practice. The conference covered gender budgeting across the four nations, looking towards a green, caring economy, an interactive open space event and a keynote on best practice in four nations collaboration. There were over 150 people registered, including participants from around the world as well as the UK.

Early Career Network (ECN)

The WBG Early-Career Network is a place for feminist researchers in academia, policymaking and the third sector to connect with their peers and with established experts. In October of 2021, we held our 3rd Annual Early Career Network Conference, Feminist Futures: Reimagining Global Climate Justice. The theme was to apply a feminist approach to the climate debate and shed light on key links between gender and climate change. The day conference included 2 panel discussions, a networking session, a skills workshop, and a roundtable "global conversation with feminist climate activists". We invited ECN members (students, academics, civil servants, voluntary workers, or third-sector researchers) who were engaging with ideas rooted in (feminist) environmental justice to present their research.

The financial statements have been prepared under the historical convention and in accordance with the Financial Reporting Standard FRS 102 (effective January 2015). The company has taken advantage of the exemptions provided by Section 1A for a small entity. Exemption from preparing a cashflow statement has been taken under FRS 102 para 1A.7, on the grounds that the company qualifies as a small entity.

Preparation of the accounts is on a going concern basis. The Trustees are of the view that the level of reserves will support the company going forward.

Income recognition

Incoming resources are the amounts derived from the receipt of donations, gifts and grants within the company's ordinary activities.

Grants for a specified future period are deferred.

Expenditure recognition

All expenditure is accounted for on an accruals basis and has been classified under headings that aggregate all costs related to the category. Expenditure is recognised where there is a legal or constructive obligation to make payments to third parties, it is probable that the settlement will be required, and the amount of the obligation can be measured reliably.

Tangible fixed assets

Tangible fixed assets are stated at cost less depreciation. Depreciation is provided at the following annual rates to write off each asset over its useful life:

The designated money purchase plan is managed by NEST. The plan invests the contributions made by the employee and employer in an investment fund to build up over the term of the plan. The pension fund is then converted into a pension upon the employee's normal retirement age which is defined as when they are eligible for a state pension. The total expense ratio of the NEST plan is 0.3% and this is deducted from the investment fund annually. The company has no liability beyond making its contributions and paying across the deductions for the employee's contributions.
